“If you don’t know a foreign language, you know little about your own.”

I. W. Goethe

1 Answer the questions.

How many languages do you speak?

What languages do you speak?

What other languages would you like to learn? Why?

Is it difficult to learn a foreign language? Why/Why not?

How does knowledge of English help you understand your native language better?

2 Read the texts and speak about the languages you know.

The English people borrowed words from other languages. Words like plaza, fiesta come from Spanish. Some come from French: hotel, restaurant, picnic and others.

There are also words from the German language. Does any of you have a dachshund, poodle, or boxer? Do you remember when you first went to kindergarten? During your music lessons you may use words from the Italian language. Do you play the piano, viola or trombone?

Lots of words like squash and skunk are from Native Americans’ languages. These are only a few examples of the many thousands of words that English borrowed from other languages.

Do you know that...

...the ten most frequent words in English are: the, of, and, a, to, in, is, you, that, it.

Chinese, English, Russian, Spanish and Hindustani are the five most spoken languages in the world

English is a world language. About 350 million people speak it. It is used as a first language in countries such as Australia, Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, New Zealand and the United States.

In other countries it is used as a second language. It is a way in which people who have different languages communicate with each other. English is the language of international trade and in many countries it is the most popular foreign language among students.

| 1. picnic | a) town square |
| 2. skunk | b) a religious festival |
| 3. poodle | c) outdoor meal |
| 4. plaza | d) a small black and white North American animal that can produce a strong unpleasant smell when attacked |
| 5. fiesta | e) a dog with thick curling hair |

4 Use a dictionary to translate these English words that come from other languages. Write sentences for each one.

Racoon, hamburger, boss, robot, noodles, rodeo.

5 In pairs, talk about why you would like to know English better.

6 Put the parts together and read the letter.

I study two foreign languages at school, French and Spanish. This year I am going to study German, too. Life is easier when you know more languages. My hobby is collecting stamps. They help me learn more about the world.

Dear friend,

1 Answer the questions.

- Who is the head of state in Great Britain?
 What is the name of the present British queen?
 What other British kings or queens do you know?

2 Read the text about Queen Victoria and say why the British people are proud of her.

Queen Victoria succeeded her uncle, William IV, as Queen of England in 1837 at the age of 18. She reigned for 64 years.

Victoria first learned of her future role as a young princess during a history lesson when she was 10 years old. And she declared: “I will be good”.

Queen Victoria proposed to her cousin Prince Albert on October 15, 1839. She described her impressions of him in the journal she kept throughout her life: “Albert really is quite charming, and so handsome...”

They married on February 10, 1840. They had nine children. There were 37 great grandchildren alive at her death.

Her long reign became a legend. By the length of her reign, the longest in English history, she restored both the dignity and popularity of the British Crown.

8 Read the text and say why Ștefan cel Mare's mother didn't let her son in.

During his reign, Ștefan cel Mare (Ștefan Vodă) fought lots of battles. He won most of them. Once, at the beginning of Ștefan Vodă's reign, the Turks defeated him. Little remained of his army.

Weak and tired, Ștefan Vodă came to the convent where his mother lived. He asked for shelter. His mother approached the door and said: "My son, I think that you have returned with victory".

"No, mother. The Turks defeated my army. The enemy is on my tracks. I hope to find shelter in your convent and gather my remaining forces. Then, I'll be ready to fight again".

"I can't give shelter to those who run away from the battlefield. Go and defeat the enemy of our Motherland. Win the battle or die for your land. Only then will I know that you are my son."

Ștefan Vodă went away. He gathered the remains of his army and finally defeated the Turks. The battle took place in Valea Albă.

Mihai Volontir, a famous Moldovan actor, was born in Onișcani, Orhei, in 1934 in the family of a forester.

The seven children of the family learned a lot from their father Ermolae Volontir, an educated man and a great lover of nature. Their mother, Feodosia Volontir, was a great music lover and a wonderful storyteller. From both mother and father the children learned to enjoy work and to love people and nature.

In his early childhood, Mihai Volontir was good at acting and played in many school and village shows.

After school, he did different kinds of jobs, but he felt he was born to act. So, in 1957, when the theatre “Vasile Alecsandri” opened in Bălți, Mihai Volontir became one of its first actors. The first play in which he acted on the stage of V. Alecsandri Theatre was “Chirița în Iași” by V. Alecsandri.

Since then, he has starred in more than 100 theatre shows and in 30 films produced at over fifteen studios of the world. He toured lots of countries, but always returned home to V. Alecsandri Theatre.

Mihai Volontir is an internationally famous actor. He won many national and international awards. He was the laureate of numerous International Theatre and Cinema Festivals.

However, success has never gone to his head. He is a home loving man and very close to his family. His wife Eufrosinia Dobindă-Volontir is a talented actress too. They belong to the same theatre troupe.

3 Make a list of questions you would like to ask Mihai Volontir.

4 Read the interview and try to find the answers to your questions.

Victor: Could you tell us about your childhood, Mr Volontir?

Mr Volontir: What would you like to know?

Victor: Where did you spend your childhood?

Mr Volontir: In the midst of nature. I lived in the forest as my father was a forester.

Victor: How was it to live in the forest?

Mr Volontir: It was exciting. We made friends with roes and hares. We woke up with the songs of birds and fell asleep with the chirping of crickets. We grew saplings and then planted them in the forest as food for animals.

Victor: What was your favourite animal when you were a child?

Mr Volontir: I loved all animals, especially horses. They are so kind, intelligent and devoted. I have always had a horse.

Victor: Could you tell us about something curious from your childhood?

Mr Volontir: I learned to ride a horse when I was three. I was still very young when I took my mare to the meadows where grown-ups grazed horses on Sundays. They organized horse-races and I often won them.

Victor: Thank you very much, Mr Volontir.

Mr Volontir: It was my pleasure.

The Grasshopper and the Ant

One warm summer day, a grasshopper jumped and played in a meadow. An ant passed by carrying a heavy load of food to its nest.

“Why are you working so hard? It’s too nice a day for work”, said the grasshopper to the ant.

“I am too busy to play. I’m storing food for the winter”, answered the ant. The grasshopper laughed.

“Winter is a long way off. There’s plenty of food for now. Come and play with me.”

“No, I have to get more food before the end of the day”, said the ant. The ant worked all that day and the rest of the summer while the grasshopper chirped and played.

Winter finally came. Snow covered the meadow. The ant was snug in its nest with plenty of food to last until spring. But the grasshopper could find nothing to eat and had to go hungry. When he asked the ant for food, she said, “I am living on the work I did last summer. You’ll have to live on your dancing and singing.”

Country Life is Never Boring

If you want to have a really quiet and healthy life, you must go and stay in the country.

Amanda's grandparents live in Islip, a beautiful village on the River Bay. They are farmers. A farmer's life, though healthy, is not an easy one. There is always a lot of work to do there.

Grandpa has to look after his horses and the stables. He milks the cows and cleans the cowsheds. He has to take great care of the young animals, the kids, the lambs and the calves. Granny has to feed the goats and sheep and fatten the pigs. Amanda likes to watch the piglets in their pigsty and the lambs and kids playing in the sheep-pen. She likes to go round the hen-houses and collect the eggs. She feeds the hens, the ducks, the turkeys and the geese three times a day.

When Amanda stays at her grandparents' place, she has to do some work, but she doesn't mind. She really enjoys it, especially when the weather is nice.

 What do you see on the way to your grandparents' house?
 What do you like best about your grandparents' place? Why?

2 Read the text and say what Amanda likes more about her grandparents' house.

My Grandparents' Cellar

When Granny asks me to bring something from the cellar, I do it with the greatest pleasure. As I choose my favourite jam and pickles, I imagine a lot of things happening there.

The cellar is made of stone and extends under the summer house. Every spring, Granny whitewashes its walls. There is a small room in the cellar with apples, pears, turnips, carrots and potatoes. This is the result of my grandad's hard work in the kitchen garden.

On the wooden shelves stand the results of my granny's summer work. Every kind of jelly, pickle and jam with preserved cherries, peaches, pears, plums, raspberries, strawberries and gooseberries from their own garden stand in shining jars. Great glass jars and small barrels hold cucumbers and tomatoes, water melons and cabbage.

In spring, I see and smell the fragile irises which grow and bloom all around the foundation of the house.

LESSON SEVEN

Granny, Dear Granny

1 Answer the questions.

Why is your grandmother special?
 What can your grandmother do that you can't?
 What do you learn from your grandmother?

2 Read the poem and say what magic things the granny in the poem does.Granny's Magic

When Granny comes, I like to see
 The magic that she does for me.
 She turns a pumpkin into pie
 As quickly as you wink an eye.

She changes cranberries to sauce
 And meat to stews and tasty broths.
 And when she mixes dough for bread
 It turns into a dove instead.

Oh, some like magic made by wands
 And I like the magic of Granny's hands.
 Some read of magic out of books
 And I see magic when Granny cooks.

3 In the poem, find synonyms for the following words.

make, delicious, change, pigeon, a magic stick.

4 Read and say why Cristina's granny is like a school of tales.

Victor: You look very happy today.
Cristina: I do. My Granny will spend the weekend with us.
Victor: That's great. I also enjoy my granny's visits.

Cristina: My grandmother is very special. She is kind, gentle and wise. She knows a lot of things and always has time to answer my questions. She is also a wonderful storyteller. I enjoy the evenings when we sit round her and she begins as usual: "Once upon a time..." Granny is so good at telling stories that when she speaks I can imagine everything. Granny tells her stories so delightfully that I can listen to them again and again. She is like a school of tales for me and my cousins. But this is

1 Answer the questions.

What famous travellers do you know?
What lands did they travel to?

2 Read the story and say why the Queen didn't punish Drake.

A Page from British History

One of the greatest queens in British history was Queen Elizabeth (1558–1603) who ruled England for more than forty years. During that time there were many fights between English and Spanish sailors.

The most famous Englishman to fight against Spain was Francis Drake.

Francis Drake was the son of a parson. He went to sea at the age of twelve, learning his craft from the master of an old ship that traded between the Thames and the ports of the southern coast. Later he became an officer on one of the English ships.

In 1577 with his ship the Golden Hind Drake set off on a voyage that took him round the world. His aim was to explore South America. He also thought that such a trip would make it possible for him to meet Spanish treasure-ships. On their way back Drake and his crew seized a great part of Spanish treasure. The Golden Hind returned to England in 1580. Philip of Spain had already made angry complaints about Drake's actions against his South American treasure-ships. The Queen of England ignored them completely. Instead of punishing Drake, she made him a knight for his exploits.

The people of England were very proud of Drake, and Queen Elizabeth herself came to visit him on board the Golden Hind. There, in Drake's low cabin, a fine dinner was served. Then the Queen commanded Drake to kneel before her on the deck. Taking a sword in her hand she said, "The King of Spain has asked for Francis Drake's head, and here I have a sword to strike it off." But instead of striking off Drake's head with her sword, she touched him lightly on the shoulder, and ordered him to rise, no longer Francis Drake, but Sir Francis Drake. So she made him a knight.

Do you know these words?

exploit (n)	set off (v)
aim (n)	trade (v)
parson (n)	explore (v)
craft (n)	seize (v)

1 Discussion questions.

Do you like to go to the woods? Why?
 What animals live in the woods?
 Where else do animals live?
 Is it interesting to watch animals? Why/Why not?

2 Read the text and say how the colours of different animals protect them.*Wonders of Nature

As you are walking through the woods a small butterfly flutters by. Its bright colourful wings shine in the sunlight.

Under the shadow of a tree you see a fawn. Its fur has white speckles. When it lies or stands motionless it blends with the sunlight and grass. It is almost impossible to see it. Then you come across a nest of baby hares. Their grey-brown colouring blends with the background. When they feel that an enemy is near, they lie very still. The enemy will not see them if they don't move.

The hare changes the colour of its fur with the seasons. During the summer, its grey-brown colour matches the soil and leaves. Late in autumn, white fur grows and replaces the hare's brown coat. This allows the hare to blend with the white snow. In winter, the hare is all white except for its ears and its nose. In spring, the colour changes again, and the hare becomes brown. As the hare is active both in summer and in winter, these colour changes are necessary to its survival.

Some animals can change their body colour to match different backgrounds. The lizard's skin colour changes due to differences in emotions, light and temperature. Every field, forest and riverbank is home to various animals. Watching them can give us new knowledge about the wonders and mysteries of living things.

 Why is planting trees a noble task?
 What trees grow in your native place?

2 Read and learn what trees grow in our forests.

beech

linden

oak willow

birch

acacia

maple

3 Read the text and speak about the Codrii.

The Codrii

There are several things that make life on Earth possible. Forests are among them. They are a major source of oxygen for the air we breathe. The Earth would probably be a totally lifeless planet without forests.

We, Moldovans, are lucky to have on this tiny piece of land the cool and shadowy Codrii.

The Codrii are hills and valleys covered with forests. Ancient oaks make them look majestic and mysterious. Here we can see poplars, maple trees and the tallest beech with branches as long as 27 metres. There are sunny spots surrounded with acacia and linden trees.

The Codrii mean rich orchards and vineyards, ancient villages, streams lined with willows, sweet fragrance of flowers and trills of birds. Winding paths lead to beautiful glades with colourful flowers.

Old people still remember the times when a lot of roes, wild boars, foxes, wolves, martens and pheasants lived in this area. Unfortunately most of them have disappeared. Our duty is to protect the Codrii for future generations.

LESSON THREE

Save Our Nature

- 1 Look at the pictures and say what nature is and why it is necessary to protect it.

- 2 Read the dialogue and answer Victor's question.

Victor: Hi, Daddy. Are you busy?

Father: Come in, Victor. I have just written another article about pollution.

Victor: Is the problem very serious, Dad?

Father: Sure it is. You know how bad traffic fumes are for our health.

Victor: Is this dangerous for people only?

Father: For plants and animals as well. Haven't you noticed how many trees are dying in parks and orchards?

Victor: Grandfather says there used to be more animals in the forest near their village. What happened to them?

Father: People all over the world speak about endangered animals. In Moldova they are roes and wild boars, martens and pheasants. Forests die because of air and soil pollution and also because men cut down many trees.

Victor: Our teacher says that fertilizers are also very dangerous. Why do farmers use them?

Father: On the one hand, fertilizers contribute to larger crops. On the other hand, they pollute water and endanger animals that feed on plants. People also take some of these chemicals into their bodies when they eat plants or meat.

Victor: What must we do to save our nature?

Do you know that...

... many European and American communities have different recycling programmes. People collect plastic, aluminium, glass and paper in separate containers. Factory workers recycle them and produce new things.

- Stacy:* Do you like the room you live in?
Sandy: Well, I have a really nice room, a one-room flat, in fact. There's a big window on the south side which opens out onto a balcony.
- Stacy:* That's great. You can sit out there in warm weather. Have you got a sofa in the room?
Sandy: I've got a bed. I cover it with a coverlet and some cushions, so it looks like a sofa during the day.
- Stacy:* Have you got any posters on the wall?
Sandy: Yes, there are some above my bed. Opposite the bed there's a desk and a chair. There are some bookshelves on the wall too.
- Stacy:* And where is your kitchen?
Sandy: Along the wall opposite the window is the kitchen area, with a cooker, a refrigerator and a sink. In the centre of that area, I have a small table and two chairs. There is no dishwasher.
- Stacy:* I would like to make a plan of your room.
Sandy: Don't forget the doors. Next to the bed there are two doors, one leading outside, the other – to the bathroom.
- Stacy:* So, it is a small flat.
Sandy: Yes, it is. But it's very comfortable and from the balcony I can see the park.

Expecting Guests

The Taylors are expecting guests. Their friends from Scotland, the Parkers, are coming on a visit. The Taylors usually receive guests in the living-room. Mrs Taylor put some flowers in a vase to make the room more beautiful.

It is a large room with a brown carpet on the floor. On the left, there is a sofa with some cushions on it. Next to the sofa, there is a TV set. Opposite the sofa, there is a sideboard. To the left, there is a bookcase full of books in English, French and German. To the right of the sideboard, there are two armchairs and a low table for newspapers and magazines. The furniture in the living-room is modern and quite new. On one of the walls, there is a beautiful picture.

Mrs Taylor has laid the table in the dining-room. It is an oval oak table covered with a tablecloth. There are nine chairs at the table.

Mrs Taylor looks around her to check if everything is ready for the guests' arrival. She has laid the table in the usual way and has put the right number of knives, forks, spoons, and glasses for each person. There is also pepper, salt, oil, vinegar and mustard on the table. Mrs Taylor has put the napkins on the left of each plate.

Everything looks splendid. She hopes they will all have a delightful evening together.

 What table manners do you know?

2 Read what Mr Taylor is saying about English food and meals. Say what makes English breakfast different.*English Food and Meals

Food is a subject that interests me. I like food that is good and well-cooked. I dislike watery cabbage soup that looks and tastes like rain, and beef or mutton that is burned or not cooked enough. But when you get real English beef and mutton, bread and cheese, eggs and bacon there is no food so good anywhere. I don't know any apple that has a better taste than a good English one, and no other cup of tea ever tastes better to me as tea that is made in England. I know that coffee is not good in most English hotels. But it is good in many English homes when it is made with fresh coffee by people who know how to make it.

Meals in England are much the same as in other countries, with the exception of breakfast. A traditional English breakfast is a very big meal – sausages, bacon, eggs, tomatoes, mushrooms. But very many people just have cereal with milk and sugar, or toast with marmalade, jam or honey. People traditionally drink tea at breakfast. Some of them have coffee. Visitors to Britain often think that breakfast is the best meal of the day.

Lunch is at one o'clock. Many people have lunch at snack bars. School children can have a hot meal at school, but many just take a snack from home – a sandwich, a drink, some fruit, and perhaps some crisps. A sandwich is bread or a roll with all sorts of salad and meat or fish.

English people have dinner in the evening between six and eight o'clock.

Helen: Tell me something about your family.

Leo: In our family there is my mother, my father, three children, a dog and two cats. My father has his own business and my mother is a school teacher. We, my brother, my sister, and I, have to help a lot at home. There are chores that we have to do every day. But we swap every week. One week I have to wash the dishes after supper, and then the next week I have to take care of the pets.

Helen: It's good to have brothers and sisters. I have always wanted to have one.

Leo: We have fights sometimes when my brother tries to make my sister and me do his chores. I never do, but my sister does. She is so kind and helpful.

Helen: How do you do your homework?

Leo: We all help each other with our homework. I am good at maths, but my sister is hopeless. She is good at languages, though. And my brother always tries to go play football instead of doing his homework.

Helen: You are lucky to have such a big united family.

Leo: I am.

1 Answer the questions.

What do you appreciate in people most of all?
What do you call people who never tell lies?

2 Read the story and say why it is good to be honest.

Honesty Is the Best Policy

A woodman was once working on the bank of a deep river. Suddenly his axe slipped from his hand and fell into the water.

“Oh! I have lost my axe,” he cried. “What shall I do? The water is very deep and I am afraid to dive into it. What shall I do? Who can help me?”

Mercury heard the poor man’s cries and appeared before him.

“What is the matter, poor woodman?” he asked. “What has happened that you are so sad and unhappy?”

Mercury listened to the man’s story and then said: “Perhaps I can help you”. He dived into the river and brought up a golden axe. “Is this yours?” he asked. “No, that is not mine,” was the answer. Mercury dived a second time and this time brought up a silver axe. “Is this yours?” he asked. Again the answer was “No”. So Mercury dived a third time and this time brought up the very axe that the woodman had lost. “That is my axe,” cried the man. “Yes, that is my own good axe. Now I can work again.”

Mercury was so pleased with the man’s honesty that he at once made him a present of the other two axes and disappeared before the woodman could even say “Thank you”.

The woodman went home very pleased with his good luck. He told his friends all about it. One of them decided to try his luck. So he went to the same place, dropped his axe into the river, and cried out: “Oh! I have lost my axe. What shall I do? Who can help me?”

Mercury appeared as before. He listened to the man and dived into the river. Again he brought up a golden axe. “Is this yours?” he asked.

“Yes, it is,” said the second woodman.

“You are not telling me the truth,” said Mercury. “You shall neither have this axe nor the one that you so foolishly dropped into water.”

LESSON TWO

The English Climate

1 Look at the weather map and answer the questions.

What types of weather are represented on the map?

What type of weather do you usually have in your country in: a) February b) May c) September?

What weather makes you feel energetic/irritable?

2 Read the text and say how the weather in England differs from the weather in Moldova.

The English Climate

In England it is never too hot or too cold for work or play in the open air. This is because of the warm waters of the Atlantic Ocean, which keep the island warm in winter and make the air cool in summer. The temperature rarely goes below five degrees or above twenty-five degrees. But the weather is often dull and damp with too little sunshine. The frequent moderate winds make it feel colder than it really is.

The warm winds that blow from the Atlantic bring plenty of rain to the island. The east and north-east winds are cool and dry.

The weather in England changes very often. You can never have the same kind of weather for a long time. In spring, sunshine and showers follow each other often during the day. An umbrella or a raincoat are things you want most in England.

The weather is generally mild in spring but sometimes they get really cold days. The summer is not as hot as on the continent. The warm days in autumn are beautiful. In winter, they have all sorts of weather. Sometimes it rains and sometimes it snows, and they also have fog and frost. Still, in England it is never as cold in winter as on the continent.

1 Read the Do you know that... section and answer the questions.

1. What do the numbers 135, 32, 25 and 30 refer to?
2. How many people can enter all the capsules of the London Eye at a time?
3. Why is the structure called the London Eye?

Do you know that...

The London Eye, the world's largest observation wheel is 135 metres high. The wheel carries 32 air-conditioned passenger capsules. Each capsule accommodates up to 25 people. The wheel provides a 30-minute, slow-moving "flight" over London and gives visitors a unique view of the city. It does not usually stop to take on passengers; the rotation rate is so slow that passengers can easily walk on and off the moving capsules at ground level. Structurally the Eye resembles a huge bicycle wheel.

2 Read the dialogue and speak about the places of interest Mr Brad has seen in London.

Mr Norris: So, how was the day?

Mr Brad: Well, it was an excellent day.

Mr Norris: Did you see Piccadilly Circus?

Mr Norris: Where did you go from there?

Mr Brad: From Piccadilly Circus I went to Trafalgar Square. People were feeding pigeons there.

Mrs Norris: How did you like Nelson's Column?

Mr Brad: I think it's an impressive monument that honours Admiral Nelson's victory against the Spanish and French navies.

Mr Norris: That's true. Do you know that on New Year's Eve people gather and sing and dance in the fountains?

Mr Brad: How very interesting!

Mrs Norris: Did you have time to go to the National Gallery?

Mr Brad: Sure, I admired the beautiful paintings I saw there. However, I couldn't see everything.

Mrs Norris: That's not surprising. The National Gallery contains one of the largest collections of paintings in the world.

Mr Norris: Will you go to see Buckingham Palace tomorrow?

Mr Brad: Oh, yes. I'll go to see it in the morning as I want to see the Changing of the Guards.

Mr Norris: It is very popular with tourists who take many photographs, mainly because it is so colourful. The ceremony usually lasts half an hour.

Mr Brad: I'll film the whole ceremony.

Mrs Norris: Well, it's time for tea. Let's go to the dining-room.

LESSON FOUR

Friends from the USA

- 1 Look at the picture of Chrys and John Paul, Peace Corps Volunteers in Moldova. Describe them.

What questions would you like to ask Chrys and John?

- 2 Read the interview and see if Chrys and John have answered your questions.

Interviewer: Could you, please, introduce yourselves?

Chrys: I was born in New York City. I have two brothers. They are both younger than I am.

John: I was born in New York State in Rochester, near Syracuse. I also have two brothers, both younger than I am. Christopher lives in California and James lives in Kentucky. He works as a waiter in a restaurant there.

Interviewer: Where did you study?

Chrys: I went to Boston University.

John: I also went to Boston University. This is where Chrys and I met.

Interviewer: And what would you like to do when you go back to America?

Chrys: I want to continue my studies at a University.

John: I would like to study law and work as a lawyer.

Interviewer: What did you like to do when you were twelve?

John: Let me see. I played soccer and basketball. I was also very good at shooting.

Chrys: I played the clarinet and took ballet, music and figure skating classes.

Interviewer: How did you get along with your brothers?

Chrys: I played a lot with my brothers. Sometimes we had fights, though.

Interviewer: Which was your favourite holiday when you were at school?

John: Christmas. We stayed at home from school for two weeks. We decorated the Christmas tree two weeks before the holiday. And the presents stayed wrapped under the tree for two weeks. On Christmas day we used to get up at five or six o'clock in the morning and rush into the living-room to unwrap our presents.

Chrys: We also decorated the Christmas tree two weeks before Christmas, but the presents came on Christmas night.

Do you have friends in the USA?

2 In this lesson, Chrys and John speak about their native country, the USA. Why are they proud of their country and its capital?*The United States of America

The United States of America, or the USA, is a large country.

In 1620, a group of people left England for America. They decided to make homes for themselves in the new land and called the country New England. Soon more and more Europeans came.

In 1776, the thirteen American colonies united and began a war against England for freedom and independence. The American colonies won the war and a new nation, the USA, was born.

July 4, 1776 became the birthday of the American nation and is called Independence Day. George Washington (1732–1799) who led the Americans in the war became the first President.

After 1776, new states were added. Today there are fifty states. The flag of the USA carries thirteen red and white stripes which represent the first thirteen states. The stars in the blue field represent the number of states at present.

The capital of the USA is Washington, DC, situated on the Potomac river. It is a beautiful city with broad avenues lined with trees.

Most Government buildings are in the same area as the Capitol and the White House. The Capitol is the place where Congress meets. The White House is the home of the US president. The city of Washington has many monuments. Three of them honour the memory of very great presidents: the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial and the Jefferson Memorial.

There is much natural beauty in the city's parks. The most famous attraction of the parks is the Japanese cherry-trees. They were a gift from Japan long ago. When these trees bloom thousands of visitors come to Washington to see them.

2 Read the text and say why the Americans give thanks to God. How do you thank God?Thanksgiving

Many nations in the world have special celebrations during which they thank God for a rich harvest. The American Thanksgiving holiday began almost four hundred years ago. It became a national holiday after the United States became an independent country.

The Americans celebrate Thanksgiving on the fourth Thursday of November. It is a popular time for trips and family reunion. Most government offices, businesses and schools are closed on Thanksgiving Day and people enjoy a four-day weekend. It is traditionally a day for families and friends to get together for a special meal. The meal often includes roast turkey, stuffing, potatoes, cranberry sauce, gravy, pumpkin pie and vegetables. Modern-day Thanksgiving for many families centres around the TV. They enjoy watching parades and football matches which compete for important titles. Lots of volunteers spend part of their holiday sharing their time and food with homeless and needy people.

Thanksgiving is a good time for people to give thanks for what they have.

2 Read the text and say what you think about Robin Hood.

Robin Hood

The Robin Hood stories come from the old times. Robin Hood was a hero for poor people. He took money from those who had a lot and gave it to the poor. He never took anything from women or people who worked in the fields or in the forest.

Robin Hood was the best bowman in England and he could fight very well with a sword and with a stave. A stave is a thick straight stick, about two metres long, used for fighting.

One day, Robin Hood was looking for deer. He saw some deer on the far side of a little river. There was a bridge over the river, but it was very narrow, and a man was standing on it. He was a very big man, more than two metres tall and his weapon was a strong stave. Robin came to the end of the bridge, but the man didn't move.

"I want to get to the other side of the river. Let me come over the bridge," Robin said.

The big man didn't say anything. "We'll fight for the bridge," Robin Hood said, "The one who falls into the river is the loser." "Ha, ha, ha!" the big man laughed, "I love fighting." And they started to fight.

They fought for an hour. Their staves moved very fast. Then Robin's foot went over the side of the bridge, and he fell into the water. The big man looked down and asked, "Do you want help?" Robin climbed up the river bank. "That was a good fight," he said, "You're a strong man. Can I do anything for you?"

"Yes," said the big man, "Can you help me find Robin Hood? I want to be one of his men." Robin Hood sounded his horn, and twenty men in green clothes were soon at the bridge. One of them said, "You've been in the water, Robin. Did this man throw you in?"

"Robin!" said the big man, "Will you forgive me?" Robin laughed and said, "I like you. What is your name?" "My name is John Little."

"Little?" said Robin and laughed because John was so big. "We'll call you Little John."

They gave Little John green clothes and the biggest bow from the outlaws' store. He became one of Robin Hood's men.

Do you know these words?

bowman (n)	weapon (n)	sound (v)
outlaw (n)	loser (n)
stave (n)	sword (n)

3 Write complete answers to these questions.

1. What country was Robin Hood from?

1 Read the paragraphs about the seven wonders of the ancient world. Why do you think people have always considered them wonders?

The Pyramids of Giza in Egypt are the oldest and best preserved of all the ancient wonders. Egyptians built them as tombs for their kings. The largest of the three, the Great Pyramid, stands about 137 metres high.

The King of Babylon built the Hanging Gardens to please one of his wives. Those were beautiful gardens of flowers, fruit trees and fountains. The gardens were on brick terraces about 23 metres above the ground.

The Temple of Diana was situated in what is now Turkey. It honoured Goddess Diana. It was 115 metres long and 55 metres wide. More than one hundred stone columns around the building supported the huge roof.

The Statue of Zeus in Greece was the most famous statue of the ancient world. The Greeks dedicated it to the king of Greek Gods. Zeus was sitting on a huge golden throne. The ivory statue was 12 metres high.

The Tomb of Mausolus was located in what is now Turkey. It was a huge white marble tomb for king Mausolus. Its size and gold decorations made it so famous that large tombs are called “mausoleums” even today.

The Lighthouse of Alexandria (over 22 metres high) stood on the island of Pharos. A fire was burning continuously to guide ships into the harbour of Alexandria.

The Colossus of Rhodes was an immense bronze statue. The statue (37 metres high) honoured the Greek god of the Sun, Helios.

Inventions in Our Life

- 1 You have learned about the seven wonders of the Ancient World. We can still play this game of listing wonders, though. What do you think the wonders of the modern world are?
- 2 Name the objects in the pictures. When did they appear? Why are they wonders?

- 3 Read the dialogue. Which modern wonders does each family member consider important?

Victor: Daddy, do you know the seven wonders of the world?

Father: Which wonders, of the ancient world or of the modern world?

Victor: Oh, are there wonders in the modern world too?

Father: Sure there are. Think how our life differs from the life a hundred years ago.

Victor: Can you give me a hint, Mum?

Mother: Think of the ways we can communicate with each other, how much and how quickly.

Victor: Oh, the telephone, but I never thought it was a wonder.

Mother: You simply have got used to it. Communication had been more difficult before Alexander Bell invented the telephone in 1876. When it was invented, people thought it was just an interesting toy and called it the talking machine.

Father: What about the fax machine? You watch the piece of paper going into the fax and at the same time, on the other side of the world, it's coming out of somebody else's machine. It's incredible!

Mother: It's incredible to be able to get almost anywhere in the world in less than twenty four hours.

Father: Moreover, it became possible to walk on the moon, and in open space.

Victor: I think the computer is the greatest wonder of our time. It can do everything: read newspapers, write, do maths, draw...

Father: Only it cannot think yet.

Victor: Oh.

2 Read the dialogue and say how different television is today.

Grandmother: It's too late now. You should be in bed, darling. Turn off the TV and go to bed.

Cristina: Oh, Granny, the programme is so interesting. I want to see it to the end.

Grandmother: Television is chewing-gum for your eyes. You watch it too much, I think.

Cristina: But I am on holidays now, Granny.

Grandmother: I know, dear. When I was your age I also liked to watch it. The programmes were different then.

Cristina: What did you like to watch, Granny?

Grandmother: The favourite programme in our family was "Wildlife". It was so exciting.

Cristina: Did you have as many channels as we do now?

Grandmother: We had only one channel. I hadn't even heard about TV before I was ten. Our first TV set was black and white. Most programmes were informative. I think there's a lot of crime and violence on TV today.

Cristina: There are very many relaxing and entertaining programmes as well, Granny. I have learned so much about life in other countries while watching television.

Grandmother: Yes, some of the educational programmes are really good. I think you should read more.

Cristina: You always say so. But, Granny, I know you enjoy watching soap operas.

Computerland

- 1 In groups, talk about where computers are used. List the advantages and disadvantages of this invention.

- 2 Read the text and say why the computer is the cleverest machine.

Computerland

I have many friends but one of them is special. It is my computer. It can do a lot of things. It helps me do my homework, chat with my friends and play different games. I feel so good when I sit in front of my computer and use the mouse and the keyboard. I click the mouse to give commands to the computer.

Adults can use computers in business, in education, and in medical service. Many schools, offices, factories, hospitals and homes have computers. Secretaries use them to write letters, writers use them to write books, bankers use them to store and transfer information, children use them to play games.

The difference between computers and other machines is in the program. It can change the computer from a game machine into a teaching machine, or from an office machine into an engineering machine. The program is a set of instructions. It “tells” the computer what to do. The computer can understand the instructions very quickly. We can write programs that tell the computer to translate from one language into another, to teach various topics, to correct mistakes, etc. The computer is the cleverest machine of the twentieth century.

What kinds of winter sports do you know?
 What summer sports do you enjoy? Why?
 What is your favourite sport? Why?
 What games do you play in your school?
 Have Moldovan sportsmen ever participated in the Olympic Games?

2 Read the text and say how modern Olympic Games differ from ancient Games.

The Olympic Games

The first Olympic Games took place at Olympia in Ancient Greece in 776 BC. The Greeks were fond of music, drama and all kinds of physical exercises. They were also religious people. The famous games at Olympia were held in honour of Zeus and always included lots of religious ceremonies as well as sporting events. The Olympic Games took place every leap year and all the cities in Greece sent their best athletes to take part in them. The strongest athletes came together to run, jump, wrestle, throw the discus and box. There were also chariot races. The winners did not get medals. The highest honour was an olive wreath and people treated the winners as national heroes.

It became a tradition to stop wars for the time of the Olympic Games. After the Romans conquered Greece there were no more Games at Olympia.

chariot (n)	box (v)
discus (n)	conquer (v)
classical (adj)	wrestle (v)
physical (adj)	leap year
sporting (adj)

Pierre de Coubertin revived the classical Games and in 1896 295 athletes from 13 countries attended the first modern Olympic Games in Athens. The Olympic Flame has always been a symbol of peace, harmony and friendship. The five circles on the Olympic flag symbolize five continents. The capitals of many countries have been Olympic cities. The best athletes of the world take part in the Olympic Games for the honour of their countries and for the glory of sports.

3 Victor and Cristina asked John Paul to tell them about his school. Read the dialogue and say what you like about John's school.

Victor: What do American children do after classes?

John Paul: All American schools organize different activities for their students. We had a nature club and a science club in our school. My friend was a member of our school rock band. I was the editor of the school newspaper. There was an art and drama group. Besides, we had all kinds of sports competitions. Our school didn't have excellent sports facilities but a volleyball court, a gymnasium and a soccer field.

Cristina: What sports did you do?

John Paul: I played soccer and basketball. We played against other school teams. We also had small teams within our school. And we competed each week.

Victor: Is sport very important in school life?

John Paul: We think physical fitness is as important as intellect.

Teacher: Do parents encourage their children to participate in all these programmes?

John Paul: Sure. American parents believe that children learn a lot after school hours. Parents often volunteer to help with classroom or afterschool activities. They sometimes make costumes for plays or play the piano or assist a teacher on a class field trip.

Cristina: My mother also helps a lot with our arts and crafts club. She teaches us needlework.

Victor: And my grandfather is the best Santa Claus in our school.

How do your values differ from those in your friend's family?

2 Read the story and say what made Midas change.

Midas

Once upon a time there lived a king whose name was Midas. He was very fond of gold, he loved it better than anything else in the world, except his daughter. Midas spent the days counting the pieces of gold he had collected. Once, when he was engaged in counting his money, a stranger entered the room and said: "Midas, you are the richest man in the world. You have everything you can wish for. But are you really happy?" "No, I am not," answered Midas, "I shall never be happy until everything that I touch becomes gold."

"You shall have your wish!" exclaimed the stranger. The next morning Midas woke up when the sun was rising. While he was dressing, he noticed that his clothes turned into gold. This made him very happy. He went into the garden and everything that he touched, the trees and the flowers, turned into gold. Soon he sat down to breakfast; his daughter was sitting beside him. Midas lifted his cup of coffee to his mouth, but the coffee became hard and yellow. This frightened him.

"What is the matter with you, Father?" asked his daughter taking his hand, and she turned into gold.

"What have I done?" cried Midas.

"It was madness to want more riches.

Now I have lost my daughter."

Suddenly he heard the voice of the stranger: "Midas, which would you like to have now: your gold or your daughter?"

"Give me back my child!" exclaimed Midas. "I shall never want gold again."

"I shall help you," said the stranger. "Go to the river and bring some water. Then pour the water over your daughter".

Midas did as the stranger had advised him. When he poured the water over the gold statue of his daughter its eyes opened and his daughter returned to life.

Midas understood that gold was not the most important thing in the world.

- 3 Read the text and say why Betty and Amanda are excited.

At the Railway Station

The Taylors are at the railway station. They are leaving for London. Mrs Taylor's brother lives there and he invited them to spend a few days in London for the Easter holidays. Amanda and Betty are very excited.

The railway station is busy and noisy. The girls are surprised to see so many passengers. Some are hurrying to catch their trains. Others are having a cup of tea and a bun or a sandwich in the refreshment room.

A train is standing at one of the platforms ready to leave. Some of the passengers are looking out of the windows. Late-comers are hurrying along looking for empty seats.

At another platform a train has just come in. Some passengers are getting off the train, others are getting on.

Mr Taylor is looking for a porter to help him carry the luggage to the platform. Their train goes from platform five. Mrs Taylor is buying some newspapers and a magazine from the bookstall. They'll read them on their journey.

Amanda and Betty are in the waiting-room. They are sitting on the suitcases. The girls are very happy. It is their first journey to London.

 What are the advantages of travelling by plane?
 What airports are there in Moldova?

2 Read the text and say what Chrys and John did when they travelled to America.

In October Chrys and John went to New York for a fortnight. They travelled by plane. They bought return tickets in advance and planned the trip carefully.

On the day of their departure Chrys and John took a bus to the airport and arrived there three hours early. Each of them had one small suitcase to check in. John also had a shoulder bag but that went as his hand luggage.

Before they got on the plane they had gone through a security check where their hand luggage was X-rayed. They waited until their flight was called. The plane took off on time and eight hours later landed at New York airport. Chrys and John got off the plane and went to the baggage claim to pick up their suitcases. But first they went through the passport control and showed their passports.

5 Look at the map again. Read about Mary's walking tour and say which places Amanda doesn't mention. Speak about their location.

Mary's Walking Tour

Amanda's cousin Mary came on a visit from Scotland. It is Saturday morning and she wants to get acquainted with the neighbourhood. This is what Amanda advises Mary to do.

"When you go out you'll find yourself in Green Street. Go right, then turn round the corner and walk down East Street. You'll see a new department store and an old park there. There are some beautiful fountains in the park. Turn right on Oak Street which is famous for its oak trees, and walk to the bridge. When you are on the bridge, don't hurry. Look around and admire the beautiful view. There are so many willows on the river bank. I like to play there with my friends.

Cross the bridge and you will see the modern building of the bank. The post office and the chemist's shop are opposite the bank. Turn right at the corner of Oak and West Streets. My mother and I like West Street when the smell of lilac fills the air.

Go right and you will see St. Anne's Church in Bell Street. It is the church where my parents and I go on Sundays. If you want to go to the zoo take a number 7 bus on West Street and get off at the zoo.

I hope you will enjoy your walking tour."

LESSON FOUR

Play Safe and Stay Safe

1 Answer the questions.

What rules of safety do you know?

What is an accident?

Do you know that more accidents happen in summer? Can you say why?

2 Read the following texts and say where and why accidents may happen.

Roads are the most dangerous places for children. Always take care when crossing a road. Use a proper crossing and wait for the green cross light.

People travel by car a lot. It's a quick, comfortable and delightful way of travelling if we keep simple safety rules. Belt up in a car, in the front and back on every journey.

Everybody likes bathing and swimming in summer. Choose a safe place for swimming where there is always a trained lifeguard on duty.

Ponds, lakes and rivers can be dangerous too. Don't play near open water. The water can be very cold, deep and fast. There may be objects hidden under the surface that can trap you underwater.

Accidents don't happen only outdoors. They can happen in the home too. Never ever play with matches! If you like cooking, be careful while using them.

Children enjoy playing with toys. Always put them away when you have finished playing. Never leave toys on floors or stairs. The others can trip over them and hurt themselves.

Cycling is a great way to get around, but it can be unsafe. Protect yourself by wearing a cycle helmet whenever you ride.

Word Bank

- helmet (n)
- lifeguard (n)
- safety rule (n)
- surface (n)
- fast (adj)
- proper (adj)
- safe (adj)
- belt up (v)

2 Look at the pictures and say what these children are wearing. For what occasion are the children in each picture dressed?3 Read the text and say why Stacy and Kate felt terrible at Silvia's party.Silvia's Party

Silvia and her parents were preparing for her birthday party. Her parents and she decided to have the party out in the forest. Silvia invited some of her classmates. She invited Stacy and Kate, too. The girls were excited. They talked much about the party and the clothes they were going to wear. Stacy asked her mother to buy a new dress for her.

One day Stacy and her mother went to the department store to buy something nice for Stacy. There were a lot of different dresses, blouses and skirts there. Stacy didn't know what to choose. The shop-assistant looked at Stacy attentively and said that they had a pretty blue dress made of silk. Stacy tried it on. She liked it very much. It was just the colour of her eyes. It had a white lace collar. They also bought two pairs of tights, a black pleated skirt and a red cotton top for Stacy's elder sister.

When they were leaving the department store, they met Kate and her mother. They had bought a yellow jacket and a brown skirt for Kate.

On the day of the party, the girls put on their new things and thought they looked perfect.

When they came to Silvia's place, most of the friends were there. Everybody was wearing trousers, a top and trainers. Silvia was wearing a T-shirt and jeans. Stacy and Kate felt they were overdressed.

In the forest the children had a wonderful time. They sat on the grass, climbed trees, ran and played a lot. Only Stacy and Kate felt terrible.

Have you read any stories by him?

2 Read the story and say why you think Wayland wanted to leave for the country of gods.

Wayland the Smith

After R. Kipling

Wayland the Smith was a god. But people all over England did not love him. They were afraid of him. He was sure he was the master of the people and all the time asked them to give him men, women and horses as sacrifice. But a time came when people didn't want to give him anything more. So Wayland had no food. As he was too proud to beg and he was also too honest to steal, he had to work.

The other gods said, "You'll come and live with us only if some man or woman truly wishes you well". But nobody did.

So Wayland the Smith had to shoe people's horses. However nobody ever saw him at work. Even now, living in the world, he didn't like to appear in the village. Men brought their horses to some place, where they tied them up, and went away, leaving their money there for the smith. When they returned for their horses, they found them shod but they never saw the smith.

One day a farmer brought his horse to the smith, put his money on the stone, tied his horse to a tree and called out: "Smith, smith, here is work for you!" Then he sat down and fell asleep. Wayland shod his horse quickly and when the farmer woke up, he took his horse and rode away without one word of thanks.

A little English elf, Puck, got very angry when he learned about it, and he decided to teach the farmer a lesson. So he made the farmer lose his way. A young man met the farmer and asked him what the matter was. When he heard the farmer's story, he was very angry, as angry as Puck was. He said, "Go back to the smith and thank him or you'll be sorry!" The young man cried, "Ho! Smith of the Gods, I am ashamed of this farmer. But for everything you have done to him and to others of our people I thank you and truly wish you well!"

Wayland was free! He could go away and live with other gods because a man had wished him well. He laughed and he cried with joy. Then he went away and since that time never appeared in England again

Do you know these words?

smith (n)	shoe (v)	truly (adv)
sacrifice (n)	tie (v)	be ashamed of

UNIT 1

Lesson 3, Exercise 5

People belong to nature.

They are a small part of it.

So, it is the duty of everyone to love and care for everything that is living: an insect, a plant, a tree, a bird, an animal.

Look around! There is so much that each of us can do to protect nature. Make a birdhouse, feed a hungry dog, plant a tree, a bush, keep your yard and your garden clean. This is what each of us should do.

Lesson 6, Exercise 8

Anna: Hi, brother. Can you help me unpack the shopping?

George: Sure. How good you've bought two packets of chips. But why did you buy only one loaf of bread? It won't be enough for lunch. And you've bought only a bar of my favourite chocolates.

Anna: They are fattening and expensive. I've bought three cartons of yoghurt instead and a lot of fruits.

George: I see. Oh, why have you bought so much jam, three jars. And I don't like raspberry jam.

Anna: Listen, you will go and do the shopping next time.

UNIT 2

Lesson 3, Exercise 6

I am horrified by the way people destroy the environment. I love the place where I live. Derby always was an attractive place, really beautiful. But now I'm thinking of going to live abroad, somewhere where people value the natural countryside. In this country they make the roads bigger and bigger, and build more factories and cut down forests. They are not interested in giving us a pleasant environment to live in.

Lesson 4, Exercise 7

Mr. Cooper's study is not very large, but quite comfortable. There are two windows in it. Through one of them you can see a lake. A bright fire is burning in the fireplace. Mr. Cooper's desk is in the middle of the room. You can see a TV set on a little table. There aren't any books on the shelves all around the walls. Some other books are on the floor. There are no armchairs in the room. A cat is sitting in one of them. Mr and Mrs Cooper are in the room. Mr Cooper is sitting at his desk writing something. It's seven o'clock by the clock on the desk.

Lesson 6, Exercise 5

The home country of hot dogs was Germany where they were called frankfurters. Americans called them "dachshund sausages". A dachshund is a dog from Germany with a very long body and short legs.

People sold hot dachshund sausages at baseball games. They got the sausages on buns.

A cartoonist drew a bun with a dachshund inside – not a dachshund sausage. Under the cartoon he wrote "Hot Dog". Everybody liked the cartoon and the new name.

Lesson 7, Exercise 6

When I was six I went to a boarding school. It was a very small and a very caring school. But I hated the school, I hated not being with my parents. I left that school when I was eleven or twelve.

When I went to the secondary school, I went to the local comprehensive school in London. I remember the friends I was making there were not so close.

I used to travel to France a lot, because I loved French. I became very close to a French family, who acted like a second family to me: a French mum, a French dad, and the lots of sisters and brothers in that family, so that they really gave me a feeling of family which I always missed, as I was an only child in the family.

UNIT 3

Lesson 3, Exercise 4

a) The Tower of London is the best-known and the most impressive fortress in England. It is situated on the north bank of the River Thames. The oldest part, the White Tower, was built in the 11th century. A fortress, a royal residence and prison, the Tower today is a national museum and home of the Crown Jewels.

b) The sound of Big Ben is one of the most famous sounds in London. Many people think that Big Ben refers to the clock or to the whole tower, next to the Houses of Parliament. In fact, the name refers to the largest of the five bells. The clock tower is famous for its accurate time keeping.

c) Madame Tussaud's is a famous museum of wax works. Inside visitors can see life size wax figures of famous people both living and dead – politicians, actors, athletes and Royalty. They can also see infamous people. People provide their own clothes for their wax figures, but are often surprized to see themselves.

New models are made regularly as people become famous and old models are melted down.

UNIT 4

Lesson 4, Exercise 6

Working with a computer is really very much like writing on a typewriter or with pen on paper.

Instead of a typewriter or pen, you write with a keyboard. Instead of paper, your words appear on a screen and are recorded on a memory stick, also called a stick. Anything you write on a computer is called a file. Your computer puts all information in files. And you must name your files. If you don't do this you will not be able to get what you need from your memory stick.

Lesson 6, Exercise 5

Mr Brown is a shopkeeper. He has a shop in a small village by the River Thames, near Oxford. The shop sells almost everything from bread to newspapers. It's also the post office. Children always stop by to buy some sweets or ice-cream on their way to and from school. They know they'll find everything they need there. Besides, Mr Brown is so hospitable and helpful.

UNIT 5

Lesson 1, Exercise 2

Mr Taylor: Four tickets to London, please.

Clerk: Single or return?

Mr Taylor: Return. Is it an express?

Clerk: Yes, it is. Would you like tickets in the sleeper?

Mr Taylor: Yes, please. How much should I pay?

Clerk: £20.

Mr Taylor: Here is the money. What time do we get to London?

Clerk: At 8.15 pm. Here are the tickets. Have a nice trip.

Mr Taylor: Thank you. Goodbye.

Lesson 6, Exercise 7

Kate:

Climate and Weather in England

British people talk about the weather in England more than anywhere else in the world. That's because the weather there changes very quickly. It may be warm in the morning and cool in the evening; it may rain in the morning, then you will have a bit of sunshine, and again it rains.

This is how the English writer Jerome K. Jerome in his book "Three Men in a Boat" makes fun of this kind:

"When I asked for advice, they all advised me to write about the weather. And since that time I was able to think of nothing else but the weather.

It certainly is very, very, very bad weather. It is so now, at the time when I am writing, and if it isn't unpleasant when you read this, it soon will be.

It always is wretched weather, according to us. In summer we say it's too hot, in winter that it's too cold, in spring and autumn it is bad because it is neither hot nor cold. If it is fine, we say the country is ruined because it doesn't rain; if it rains, we wish for fine weather. If December passes without snow we want to know what has become of our good old winters; and when it snows we are again not happy, we shall never be happy until each man makes his own weather, and keeps it to himself."

Weather Forecasts

There'll be some early morning mists and after that it'll be mainly dry and sunny with temperatures around sixteen or seventeen. It will stay dry all day, but there'll be quite a wind.

* * *

We expect some rain in the morning. There may be some storms with thunder and lightning and the temperatures will be around ten or twelve degrees.

* * *

It'll be quite warm for the time of the year, no winds, and sunshine nearly all day, with temperatures around fifteen or sixteen.

* * *

There'll be heavy rain and maybe some snow during the afternoon. It'll be very cold, with temperatures not going above two or three degrees.

The Taste of the British

Porridge, bacon and eggs, toast and marmalade, and two cups of strong tea – that was a real breakfast, a breakfast that made the miner’s back strong, the student’s head clear and the day’s problems easy. But, people of the world, take out your handkerchieves, because the news is sad. The British breakfast is dying. It’s suffering from a terrible disease-cornflakes. The disease is spreading through the kitchens of the nation. More and more people can’t resist – cornflakes are quicker; you don’t have to cook them. But that isn’t all. There’s another cruel killer ready to poison the dying breakfast: “instant” tea has been seen on a lot of kitchen tables. Like cornflakes, it’s quicker; it’s more convenient. Time in Britain is becoming more important than taste. You’ll hear people say: “I had a lovely lunch. It only took ten minutes to cook.” Or “Let’s have some fish fingers. They’re so quick.” But what do they taste like? I don’t think people have got time to notice. Nowadays you can buy almost everything in tins or in packets – even the roast beef of England has been imprisoned in a plastic bag!

Some people haven’t even got time to open a tin, so they buy their dinner at a “take-away” shop. They can take home a pizza, or a Chinese meal, or a fried chicken. And, of course, there’s always the “Fish and Chip” shop. But even in the “take-aways” the story’s the same - food is beginning to taste like the chemicals that are used to keep it “fresh”.

The British breakfast is dying. And it’s trying to tell us something: “You are what you eat.” So, if our food becomes more tasteless, perhaps we’ll become less interesting as well. And, like frozen chickens, we’ll have no real taste at all.

The English Language

Some words have different meanings, and yet they’re spelt the same.

A cricket is an insect,
to play it — it’s a game.
On every hand, in every land,
it’s thoroughly agreed,
the English language to explain
is very hard indeed.

Some people say that you’re a dear,
yet dear is far from cheap.

A jumper is a thing you wear,
yet a jumper has to leap.
It’s very clear, it’s very queer,
and pray who is to blame for different meanings to some words, pronounced and spelt the same?

A little journey is a trip,
a trip is when you fall.
It doesn’t mean you have to dance whenever you hold a ball.

A Pleasant Trip

An Englishman who was in France on a short visit wanted to go back to England. He had only enough money to pay for his ticket. As he knew that the trip would take only two days, he decided that he could live without eating those two days. So he bought a ticket and got on the ship. When dinner time came, he was very hungry, but he said he was not hungry. In the evening he was even more hungry, but when the waiter came to ask him to have supper, he said he was seasick, and he went to sleep hungry. The next morning the Englishman felt half-dead with hunger. "I shall eat," he said to himself, "even if they throw me into the sea." So when dinner time came, he went to the dining-room and ate everything that was on the table before him. When dinner was over, he quickly got up and went to his cabin.

In the evening when the ship was not far from London, he ate his supper and said to the waiter: "Bring me the bill for my meals."

But the waiter asked: "What bill?"

"For the dinner and supper I ate."

"But you paid for your meals when you bought the ticket," answered the waiter.

Flower Garden

As soon as the ground was warm
I turned up the soil
Then I raked it smooth
And counted not the toil.

Next I bought the little seeds
Of my favourite flowers
Planted, watered, weeded, and so
Passed many pleasant hours.

Thus they grew in beauty fair
And waved for all to see
A rainbow prisoned on my lawn
A fairy galaxy.

But the pleasure, most of all
I got from start to end
Was when I cut a sweet bouquet
And gave it to a friend.

Halloween

This is a story how Halloween was invented. Once upon a time there was a big vast forest through which many travellers journeyed to get to the town on the other side. It was such a dark forest that the travellers often wandered off the dim little trail and got lost. They tried to find their way and finally came to a pretty little cottage where a witch tricked the poor travellers by placing a magic spell on them. One day a poor little girl came to this very forest. As it grew very dark she lit a candle but one of the witches blew it out. The girl tried many times to light the candle but the flame flickered and went out. Then the poor girl walked under a big nut-tree but the witch turned the nut over the little girl's head into a pumpkin. The girl felt around in the dark and found out a pumpkin. She found a stick and began to hollow out the pumpkin. When she hollowed she put the candle inside, lit it, put the lid and then put the pumpkin lantern on her head.

After a while she came to the witch's cottage. On seeing a horrible two-headed monster the witch fell down, knocked herself out on the hard cellar floor and soon died. The spell was lifted and the travellers were saved.

An Important Lesson

One day Jim came home from school very excited. He had seen an interesting notice on his classroom wall. It was about a competition for the best story. "What do you have to write about?" his mother asked Jim.

"A story called The Most Important Lesson I Have Ever Learned."

So that evening after supper Jim sat down and tried to think of a story. Then he remembered something that had happened a few months earlier. That's what Jim wrote:

"Old Mrs Hanley has known me since I was a baby. She used to look after me when my parents were at work. For many years she has been our neighbour. Three years ago her husband died. And since that time she has been rather lonely. There are no other houses nearby. I see her in her garden every morning on my way to school. She waves to me as I ride past on my bicycle. Sometimes I stop and talk to her.

But then, one day, I did not see her in her garden. I wondered where she was – but I was in a hurry, I couldn't stop. I did not see her the next day, and the day after that. I could not imagine what had happened to her. But I never had time to find out – there was always something more that seemed important to do.

In the end I told my mother. I said that I had not seen Mrs Hanley for a few days. My mother telephoned her right away, but there was no answer. Mother felt worried, and we went to her house. We found Mrs Hanley in bed seriously ill. She had been in bed for three days without help.

Mrs Hanley was ill for a long time, but she got better. Now she is back in her garden every morning.

You must always find time to think of other people – that is the most important lesson I have ever learned."

The Fox and the Grapes

One summer's day a fox was passing through
 A vineyard; faint he was and hungry, too.
 When suddenly his keen eye chanced to fall
 Upon a bunch of grapes above the wall.
 "Ha! Just the thing!" he said. "Who could resist it!"
 He eyed the purple cluster – jumped – and missed it!
 "Ahem!" he coughed. "I'll take more careful aim."
 And sprang again. Results were much the same,
 Although his leaps were desperate and high.
 At length he paused to wipe a tearful eye,
 And shrug a shoulder. "I am not so dry,
 And lunch is bound to come within the hour...
 Besides," he said, "I am sure those grapes are sour."
 The moral is: We seem to want the peach
 That always dangles just beyond our reach.
 Yet, like the fox, we must not be upset
 When sometimes things are just too hard to get.

Wolves

The wolf is a sociable animal. Usually five or six animals live together in a group. Groups of wolves are called packs. The strongest wolf in the group is the leader. When wolves are successful at the hunt and catch an animal, the leader of the pack will usually eat first. The leader and the most important female in the pack are the only wolves in the groups to have young. Baby wolves are called cubs. If the parent wolves have another litter (more cubs) the next year, the older cubs will help their parents to look after the new cubs. If the female wolf dies, another wolf from the pack will adopt all the cubs, and look after them as if they were her own. There are many children's books in which the wolf is the bad guy in the story. But this is unfair. Wolves are very shy animals, and they are not dangerous. In fact, they will only kill if they are hungry.

And they don't kill human beings, they kill old, weak and sick animals. Wolves fear human beings, and they are right to do so. Men are cutting down the forests where the wolves live.

If the forests are cut down, the American wolf will lose its natural habitat (the place where it lives). It will lose its supply of food, too. In fact, the American wolf will become endangered, like many other forest animals.

A Sad Story

Three men came to New York for a holiday. They came to a very large hotel and took a room there. Their room was on the forty-fifth floor.

In the evening the three men went to the theatre and came back to the hotel very late. "I am very sorry," said the clerk of the hotel, "but our lifts do not work tonight. If you do not want to walk up to your room, we shall make beds for you in the hall."

"No, no," said one of the three men, "no, thank you. We do not want to sleep in the hall. We shall walk up to our room."

Then he turned to his two friends and said, "It is not easy to walk up to the forty-fifth floor, but I think I know how to make it easier. On our way to the room I shall tell you some jokes; then you, Andy, will sing us some songs; then you, Peter, will tell us some interesting stories."

So they began to walk up to their room. Tom told them many jokes; Andy sang some songs. At last they came to the thirty-fourth floor. They were tired and decided to have a rest.

"Well," said Tom, "now it is your turn, Peter. After all those jokes we heard on our way here tell us a long and interesting story with a sad ending."

"I shall tell you a sad story you ask me for," said Peter. "It is not long, but it is sad enough,

WE LEFT THE KEY TO OUR ROOM IN THE HALL."

Seasons

This is the season
When fruit is sweet,
This is the season
When school friends meet,
When noisy and merry
And brown in the sun
With their books and bags
To school they run.

This is the season
When mornings are dark
And birds do not sing
In forest and park.
This is the season
When children ski
And Father Frost
Brings the New Year tree.

This is the season
When snowdrops bloom,
When nobody likes
To be in his room.
This is the season
When birds make their nests,
This is the season
We all like best.

This is the season
When nights are short,
When children are full
Of fun and sport,
Playing, swimming
All the day,
With a happy song
On a sunny day.

English for You

English for You is a two-level course for Forms 5 and 6. The course provides 90–100 classroom lessons at each level.

English for You combines traditional methods of language teaching and recent communicative approaches, providing a systematic development of grammar, functional language, vocabulary, skills and pronunciation integrated throughout.

English for You incorporates individual, pair, group, and class activities in an integrated manner.

English for You has a topic based syllabus organized around subjects of interest to young pupils of this age. The topics touch on aspects of pupil's general education.

English for You includes a great variety of activities that are intellectually stimulating and self-motivating. Communicative activities and Project Work tasks encourage creativity.

Components at each level:
